A Word From Our Directors

All our love to our incredible student staff and the wonderful people we got to meet because of this position. The Whole Earth Festival welcomed endless amounts of laughter, twirling, and warm hugs into our years at Davis. It is difficult to put our immense gratitude for this job into words. Finding such a large group of people who are equally as hardworking and motivated as they are kind and vibrant is a challenge. Yet somehow, we lucked out. Even with busy class schedules, second jobs, and the unexpectedness of life, they effortlessly managed to commit infinite time and energy into putting together yet another beautiful festival. Thank you to all of our lovely vendors, performers, artists, speakers, and everyone in between for sharing your talents and making the festival what it is! As well, the most special thank you to all of our volunteers. You give us the support we need to make this festival happen. And, thank you to all those that helped us behind the scenes. Thank you for the never ending Zoom calls and meetings and emails and texts that made this all happen. As we head towards graduation, we can confidently say that WEF and the people we have met along the way have defined our Davis experience, gifting us an 'I can do that' toolkit that we will forever carry with us into the future. We hold so much love in our hearts for WEF and feel so lucky to see everyone come together with the sole purpose of wanting to connect and support the community through art, music, sustainability, and education. This sense of community cannot be overstated and we will strive to foster it wherever we are in the world. We hope the same for you. Keep working towards light, kindness and understanding and keep digging deeper!

*May flowers grow wherever you walk,
Emma Mele & Olivia Hurley*

Rules and Regulations

Substances

All events at UC Davis have zero-tolerance for drug and alcohol possession. The Regents of the University of California, do not allow marijuana use on any of its UC Campuses, this includes medicinal purposes. Additionally, this is a smoke and tobacco free campus. Those in possession of drugs or alcohol will be cited. Thank you for keeping the Whole Earth Festival a substance free event.

First Aid

A first aid station is located on the northeast quad next to the staff dome. For emergencies call 911.

Lost n' Found

If you or your child are lost, go to the Staff Dome located in the east Quad. Before your child is lost, instruct them to make their way to the dome in the event of an emergency. Similarly, visit the dome in case of a lost or found item.

Pets

All dogs must be on a leash while at the festival, guided by a person. Dogs may not be staked down and a human must be with the dog at all times. Please, do not leave pets inside your car and make sure your dog gets enough water. Please pick up after your dog.

Lodging

No camping is permitted anywhere on campus. People found camping anywhere on campus are subject to citation and removal from campus. There is a KOA campground in West Sacramento or find accommodation in Davis at one of the many hotels.

Experiential Space

Welcome to the Experiential Space, an inclusive and immersive dome at the heart of the Whole Earth Festival, designed to engage, inspire, and connect. Within this dome, participants are invited to embark on a journey of self-discovery, diverse knowledge, community connection, and environmental awareness through a curated blend of interactive workshops and performances.

The Experiential dome is more than just a space; it's a vibrant community of artists, educators, environmentalists, and festival-goers coming together to share knowledge, art, and experiences. Here, every interaction is an opportunity to learn, grow, and contribute to a movement towards a more sustainable and connected world.

As we gather in this dome we aim to provide you an experience based on inclusivity, expanding on many cultural practices and educations. We hope to provide you with the most joyous memories!

Art Space

At Art Space, we challenged artists to bring to the festival art that embodies "Beauty of Biodiversity." We decided to create a theme for our space to encourage artists to submit work that aims to appreciate and honor all life on Earth. We asked artists: How can you dig deeper into nature as a living organism on Earth? How do you appreciate nature? Can you dig it?!!! You will find at our exhibit an investigation of curiosity about the planet we live on through art, as well as beautiful works that communicate beyond this theme.

This year we are also bringing public art engagement to the festival to encourage festival-goers to collaborate and foster a creative space that inspires folks to seek deeper knowledge, connect, and create! Kindly borrowed from Project Artivism based in San Francisco, we are bringing a portable screen-printing bike to Art Space, where we will be teaching festival-goers how to screen print their very own Can You Dig It poster to take home as a souvenir from the 55th Whole Earth Festival!

We aim for Art Space to be a catalyst for conversation and encourage our community to dig deeper!

Kids Space

This inclusive area offers arts, crafts, activities, and games! Come enjoy our space focused on sustainability, learning, and most importantly having fun! Play with bubbles, dance around, and create a few masterpieces over here at Kids' Space.

Disclaimer: Please know that no child may be left unattended in our space. Children AND their parents are encouraged to enjoy the space!

Education Space

Discover a unique and interactive learning experience through a diverse array of booths, speakers, and workshops. We spotlight various topics such as environmental sciences, sustainable living, mindfulness, philosophy and personal activism. Come learn and strengthen your inner activist! We have booths and speakers all weekend covering the environment, wellness, and academics.

Our Values

Acceptance

Acceptance is the core value that underpins the Whole Earth Festival. We welcome anyone who wants to attend, free of charge. In recent years, the Whole Earth Festival staff strives to reflect our student body. We remain committed to reflecting the diverse perspectives of our community to ensure we continue to promote inclusivity and equity at our event.

Sustainability

Though far from perfect, the Whole Earth Festival champions its commitment to becoming ever-more sustainable with each year of its evolution. In its 55 years of existence, WEF has transitioned to offering exclusively vegetarian food options, employing a peaceful army of compost-sorting volunteers, incorporating a reusable dish program that outsiders can only describe as absurd before seeing its function, and utilizing solar power. We hope to earn our status as zero-waste, evermore incorporating creative methods of waste reduction.

Community

Whether it be a shared music taste or matching grime beneath one's nails from sorting compost, the Whole Earth Festival proudly fosters an environment in which students, community members, and strangers alike can congregate and forge genuine relationships. The orchestration of a festival takes innumerable hands and hearts working together to achieve a common goal; community is therefore the "Whole" to our "Earth Festival."

Expression

At the Whole Earth Festival, community is everything. We put the well-being and inclusion of every attendee, volunteer, and staff member first, creating a warm and welcoming atmosphere. We're all about embracing diverse forms of creativity while respecting cultural integrity. As a festival family, we stick to our roots while always staying open to growth and change.

NonViolence

Non-violence is an integral and historic part of the Whole Earth Festival. From understanding the practice of de-escalation to active listening, we encourage and strive to make this festival a welcoming and diverse experience for all people. Whole Earth rejects the dominant mindset in American culture: an end to contention results in the dichotomy of victor and vanquished. Nonviolent conflict resolution is rooted in awareness and peaceful action, making it a powerful practice we employ not only in our festival, but lingers amidst our conscious and subconscious minds, long after the dome's deconstruction.

Zero Waste

At this festival we recycle, compost, or reuse everything we possibly can to achieve "Zero Waste". With the help of our compost and recycling directors and their wonderful volunteers all disposed materials are hand sorted to see that they are properly recycled or composted. WERC (Whole Earth Reusable Cooperative) aims at keeping the festival free of disposable single use dishes and utensils by providing reusable dishware. This reduces our contribution to landfills, saves forests, prevents land/air/water pollution, and saves on energy costs. Make sure you return your dishes to the dish return booths so they can be cleaned and used again and again!

Complete Without Meat

Have you noticed that none of the food booths offer meat? A long time ago the festival staff decided that this event would be meat free, for the sake of you and I and the animals and the Whole Earth! Eating plant based is the number one way an individual can reduce their impact on the environment, it's also better for your health. Let's skip the factory farms and eat plants!

Love Your Mother

It's no coincidence that this festival is always held on Mothers Day weekend. Whole Earth is a celebration of the life that is given to us by our mothers; especially our Great Mother: Mother Earth. Thank you Mother Earth for every leaf on every tree, for the setting and rising sun, for the blue of the sky and green of the grass, for every ripple in every water, every star among the moon, for every every creature small and big, and most of all thank you for the gift of being. Mothers, you are the catalyst of life, what would we do without you!

Whole Earth Meditation

Visualize yourself right where you are. Notice the space that you are in, whether it be inside or outside. Now lift out of the environment you find yourself in and look down on it from above. Lift out further and see the entire neighborhood or area that you are in. Now expand out and lift higher and higher into space. From space, view the Earth as a single luminous blue mandala. See the Earth from all angles. See it as a planetary orb, a wheel spinning in space with an essential value, its dharma or truth, its capacity to sustain life.

Visualize the whole of life on Earth, from the animals, to the plants, to the humans down to the insects and plankton. See it all as one whole system. The whole of the life on the Earth is the biosphere, or the sphere of life that covers the surface of the Earth like a film or vibrant mantle that is ever in motion. Really visualize how all of the different life forms and processes are one unity on this shining blue orb.

Now let your mind penetrate beneath the surface of the Earth. Feel the spherical layers of sediment and crystalline rock. Go to the core and find the massive iron crystal octahedron. Feel this crystal core as a dynamic radio receiver elongated in the direction of each of its magnetic poles. Place yourself in meditation at the very center of that crystal radio receiver. Who is the Earth receiving? What is the Earth broadcasting? Where is the Earth receiving? What messages is Earth giving you right now?

-Jose Arguelles, Founder of WEF

Land Acknowledgment

We should take a moment to acknowledge the land on which we are gathered. For thousands of years, this land has been the home of Patwin people. Today, there are three federally recognized Patwin tribes: Cachil DeHe Band of Wintun Indians of the Colusa Indian Community, Kletsel Dehe Wintun, and Yocha Dehe Wintun Nation. The Patwin people have remained committed to the stewardship of this land over many centuries. It has been cherished and protected, as elders have instructed the young through generations. We are honored and grateful to be here today on their traditional lands.
